Kips Bay Decorator Show House 2015

categories: Interior Design, NYC

43rd annual kips bay decorator show house!

This past weekend I toured the 2015 Kips Bay Decorator Show House. The firm I work for did not have a room this year, but it was nice to pull my head out of the sand for a few hours and check out the fabulous work of fellow designers. This year's show house is being held in the Arthur Sachs Mansion (which is all yours for a cool $35 million). 22 designers and architects decked out the sprawling 7 floors of the mansion. For your viewing pleasure, below is a peek into some of my favorite spaces in this year's show house.

The stairwells and hallways of the mansion featured wall-to-wall art curated by Canadian firm, Philip Mitchell Design. This was simply put, fabulous, and really helped to tie the entire experience of the show house together.

More amazing art (by Philip Mitchell Design) in an elevator vestibule.

The basement of the show house features a little store with designer donations (art with insanely good prices and some chic pillows caught my eye). I picked up this book documenting the history of the show house. I was excited to find a spread featuring the work of my firm from back in the day!

If you're in the New York area, you must check out the 2015 Kips Bay Decorator Show House. It is open through June 11th and all proceeds benefit the Kips Bay Boys and Girls Club.
